FOREWORD

"To every thing there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven." To us, who have only a small portion of time's expanse to use as best we can, it is something precious, something to be cherished. In cherishing it, we try to find our place in its scope; we attempt to make ourselves known, to show that we did something with the time alloted to us.

During our four years in high school, we have had times to play, times to work, times to laugh, and times to weep. These times have figured prominently in our lives. Now is the most important one of them all; the moment for leaving a record of how we used this time. The Marsengold of 1960 is that record.

Mr. Walter N. Benoit

Dedication

When it becomes necessary for a class to survey the effects it has made on the history of its school, then it must also consider the influences which have caused them. Standing out in the minds of each member are significant events, experiences, and people.

Probably no other single person has had a greater effect on our class than Mr. Walter Benoit.

Mr. Benoit served as our class advisor for three years before becoming the guidance director at the junior high school. During this time we found his advice to be a source of assurance in time of our doubt. Although a direct tie with the class is no longer existent, he has continued to show a personal and genuine interest in each of us, and to maintain confidence in the abilities of our class.

In sincere appreciation of these things, the Class of 1960 dedicates its yearbook to him.

Each class, in itself, is a small school. It has its own officers, its planning board, and even, in its two advisors, its own administration. It has also its own character and personality. Yet a class, by itself, lacks something. It is the influence which each has upon the other. This interplay of ideas, through representation in school-wide organizations and in activities presented by the classes for the school, creates that larger character and personality which the word "school" stands for.

A high school needs its four separate units working together, with all contributing something to the total school. Class representation on the Student Council helps mold the character and maintain the standards of the school. The freshmen learn from the sophomore dance the work involved in presenting their first social function. The sophomores learn from the Junior Prom what is necessary to make the most important social function of the year a success. The juniors learn from the seniors the many responsibilities which accompany the honor of being the leaders of the school.

All these, plus the different individual attitudes of the members of these classes expressed in sports, clubs, musical groups—all the organizations within the school—combine to make the school what it is.

So a class has an importance that cannot be ignored. It contributes to the working of the school, to the personality of the school, and then takes its place in time beside all the others who have gone before, the alumni of the school.

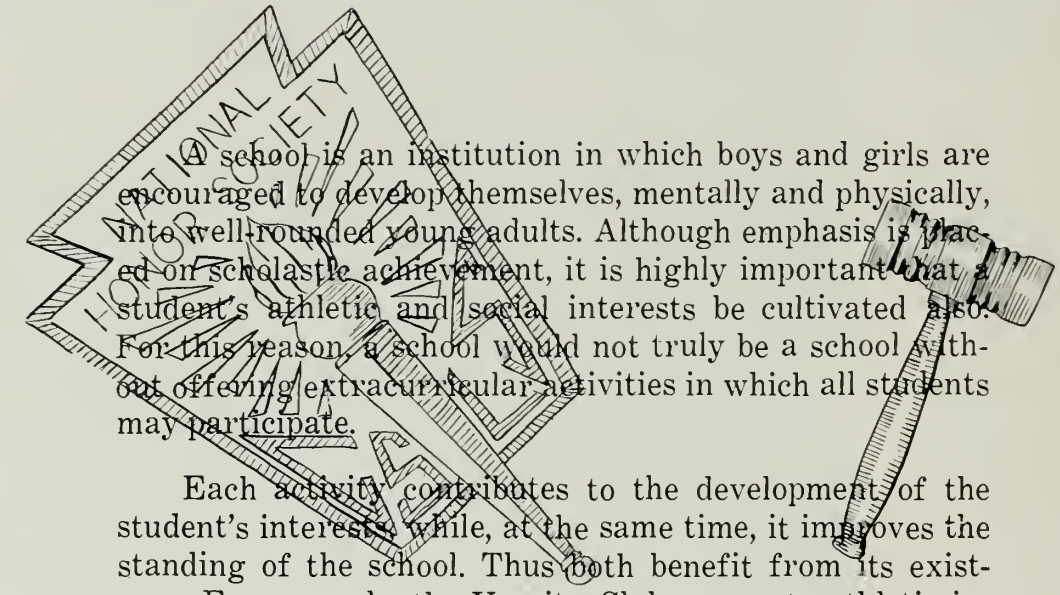
ACTIV



A school is an institution in which boys and girls are encouraged to develop themselves, mentally and physically, into well-rounded young adults. Although emphasis is placed on scholastic achievement, it is highly important that a student's athletic and social interests be cultivated also. For this reason, a school would not truly be a school without offering extracurricular activities in which all students may participate.

Each activity contributes to the development of the student's interests, while, at the same time, it improves the standing of the school. Thus both benefit from its existence. For example, the Varsity Clubs promote athletic interest and good sportsmanship within the group which, in turn, reflects favorably upon the character of the school as a whole. The Student Council, in governing the student body, teaches its members the rudiments of parliamentary procedure and, at the same time, helps to establish a tone of orderliness in all organizations throughout the school. Plays, concerts, debates, Red Cross projects, the school publications—all are a part of Sharon High School's activities, a part of school life; and the time devoted to them is time well spent, for the individual and the school both profit.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Sharon High's Student Council, now under the direction of Mr. Gerald M. Dunn, has certainly lived up to its high standards of past years. The council has initiated such needed and valuable improvements as the adoption of a school ring, the use of student identification cards, and the formulation of dance regulations. At the same time the customary business of the council has been carried on with its usual efficiency. This business includes holding the Christmas Drawing Contest, maintaining a school scrapbook, screening and taking action on student suggestions, issuing honor study hall passes, selling candy at varsity basketball games, presenting Good Citizenship Awards, insuring the school of a monitor and greeter service, and holding its annual student scholarship dance.

The annual convention of the Associated Bodies of Student Councils of Southeastern Massachusetts was held in the spring of last year at Sharon High School, with thirty-seven schools represented and four hundred people in attendance. The theme was "Juvenile Delinquency: How May Student Leaders Help?" The council and Mr. Benoit, its advisor at that time, can be justly proud of the success of this convention.

We hope that, in the future, Sharon High School will continue to be able to rely upon a capable and conscientious Student Council, always seeking to do what is best for the students and the school. Surely the Council of 1959-1960 has added to the solid foundation already established.

Student Government Day campaign speeches

Mr. William Coughlin, Chairman of Faculty Committee

The Assembly Committee, formed three years ago by the Student Council, has as its main function the planning, scheduling, and running of the weekly assemblies. During this year the committee, under the guidance of advisors Mr. Coughlin, Mr. Dunn, and Mr. Roman, and chairman Paul Benigni, has arranged for such excellent assemblies as the Pep Rally, a full-length feature movie, Mr. McDermott's moving talk on the life of the blind, and the National Honor Society inductions. In addition, the committee instituted this year the Spotlight, by which an outstanding person or group is recognized.

The National Honor Society is an honorary organization established in 1921 by the National Association of Secondary-School Principals.

New members are tapped in assembly at the beginning of the second semester (February 12, this year.) In order for a student to be eligible for tapping, he must have been in Sharon High School for at least one semester; he must be in his junior or senior year and have maintained a "B" average since he entered high school. From this group, those who possess, to a satisfactory degree, qualities of leadership, character, and service are elected by the faculty.

As membership in this society is the highest honor which may be given a high school student, members may well be proud of their achievement.

ICS CLUB

The Dramatics Club, under the superb direction of Mr. Blake and our willing newcomer, Mrs. Braun, has continued in its fine tradition of excellent productions this year. They include Whappin' Wharf, Saint Joan, and Seven Nuns from Los Vegas as well as a series of tableau scenes in December, representing Christmas and Chanukah.

The increase in membership in the National Thespian Society has been unusually high, for, after belonging to the society for only two years, the club has enrolled over twenty members.

Many of the club's meetings are devoted to demonstrations of make-up application, instruction in student directing and staging, as well as to programs of acting and poetry reading.

This year's officers are Belleruth Krepon, president, Pamela Bailey, vice-president, Marion Hall, secretary, and Joan Tieman, treasurer.

The Dramatics Club, which is only four years old, has continued its remarkable progress this year, and we are sure that it will maintain its position as a top club in the years to come.

Talent Show

With Jimmy Nugent as president and Mr. Hall advising, the Boys' Varsity Club is one of the busiest organizations in the High School. During the winter months the club participates actively at the basketball games, providing ticket sellers, monitors and a refreshment stand. For the rest of the school year, the boys work on the Pep Rally and annual Talent Show, plus moneymaking projects. The latter help pay for the athletic equipment donated to the school by the club.

Other officers include Jimmy Cunningham, Paul Benigni, Kevin Murphy and Bob Kirouac—a fine group of leaders for one of the school's most respected clubs.

GIRLS' VARSITY CLUB

Miss Marion Haley
Advisor

The Girls' Varsity Club is an organization dedicated to the promotion of sportsmanship and school spirit. Diane O'Donnell, together with her executive staff and Miss Haley, the advisor, are in the midst of another successful year. In addition to running basketball, volleyball and badminton intramurals, selling potato chips and "rah-rah" sticks at boys' basketball games, they also plan two spring car washes. Each of these activities, besides enriching the treasury, contributes to the betterment of the school and students.

At the close of the last school year, a new system for choosing members was inaugurated. Girls who are eligible for membership join the club on a trial basis in the spring. They go to meetings, work on committees, do everything a member can, except earn points. The next fall, the trial members fill out applications and the other members vote on whether or not to admit them. This system has proved very successful.

MARSENGOLD

One of the most important efforts of any senior class is its yearbook. This year the Marsengold staff has devoted many hours of serious work to its production in order to maintain the traditionally fine quality of the yearbook. Meeting this standard would have been impossible, however, had it not been for the careful and capable supervision of Miss Dorris Newton and the able management of editor-in-chief, George White.

Despite the temptation to wander from the business of the afternoon, the staff members spent long hours, with a minimum of asides, at this exacting but fruitful work. However, prior to this time, the editors had spent a great deal more time planning and laying out the yearbook while the business staff had successfully raised the required amount to finance the book. All in all, when the work was completed, the entire staff felt the sense of genuine pride and satisfaction that comes only from a job well done.

At the opening assembly this year, the Sharon High Band delighted everyone with an unusual and excellently played Latin American number; and it has continued such fine performances ever since. Now "Peter Gunn" and "My Fair Lady" are a part of the band's repertoire together with the favorite marches, thus varying pleasantly the music portion of the assemblies. We would like to express our thanks to Mr. Hoffman and the band for adding much to the enjoyment of the assemblies and to the spirit of the school as a whole.

Rehearsing for the Music Festival

The Glee Club and Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Edwards, meet twice a week. At these rehearsals, as well as in their concerts, they are accompained by Mrs. Bertha Colaneri.

Traditionally the vocal groups perform in the Christmas Assembly and present another concert in the spring.

Several members of the Glee Club participated this year in the Southeastern Music Festival, and at the time of this writing, three have been chosen to audition for the All State Glee Club.

Both the Glee Club and the Chorus contribute greatly to the pleasure and culture of Sharon's students.

DEBATING CLUB

This year the Debating Club is in its second year of interscholastic competition debating, this season, the national high school topic concerning the labor problems in the United States. Each Wednesday the twenty-five members meet with Mr. Coughlin to observe or participate in practice debates in preparation for the approximately fifty interscholastic meets scheduled for this year.

Last year Sharon finished third in the Massachusetts Debating Tournament. Because of its high achievement, the club has been granted a charter in the National Forensic League.

Room 100, during the activity period on Tuesday afternoons, is the scene of a great deal of orderly confusion, for this is the meeting place of the Eagle, Sharon High's newspaper. Such wails as "But the deadline was yesterday" or "These galleys are too short" can often be heard as this energetic group's monthly issue goes to press. This year under the direction of Mrs. Gorman and co-editors Nancy Blyler and Nancy Shuman, the Eagle has a membership of thirty-five students, each of whom serves on one or more staffs. These young journalists perform the myriad duties connected with publishing a paper, including writing, rewriting, and typing copy; correcting galleys; pasting up a dummy; and selling the finished product.

Mr. Myles Marcus
Advisor

On alternate Friday mornings, the Audio-Visual Aids Club meets under the able direction of Mr. Myles Marcus. Here any important business is discussed, committees report, and assignments for the week are made.

The most important of these assignments is to provide the classroom teacher with equipment for the movies, slides, tape recordings and records which he uses to supplement his instruction and to operate the machines for the teacher.

Our smooth running assemblies are, to a great extent, made possible through their services also, in setting up and operating electrical equipment.

In addition to these activities, we are all accustomed to seeing members of the club taking movies of various school functions. This visual diary of the school year is then incorporated into a single film and shown to the student body at an assembly.

The Art Club meets every day, but never as an entire unit. Under the direction of Mrs. Dann, the students learn the techniques of using pen, pencil, and brush. The club exhibits its work on various occasions through the year and provides decorative works for the main foyer, adding much to the beauty and culture of our school.

FUTURE TEACHERS OF AMERICA

The goal of the Future Teachers of America is to introduce students to and interest them in the teaching career. To attain this end, they have inaugurated a series of projects. They substitute occasionally for teachers and invite college students majoring in education to speak about the teaching field and about problems arising in college. Last year to raise funds, the F.T.A. made Sharon dolls and sold them at the basketball games. This year Sharon pennants have been sold. The Ann Sullivan Chapter, the official name of this club, has been working hard in the three years since its founding. In that time it has fulfilled the promises it gave of being a valuable addition to the activity program of Sharon High School.

As you enter the hushed halls of the school library, the first voice you hear will be that of a member of the Library Club. "Where is your pass?" These library assistants also check your books in and out, prepare books and magazines for circulation and hound you for the book that was due several weeks ago. "Anyone can forget".

One purpose of the club is to free the librarian for her other work. Miss Marion Clark, the advisor, hopes, also, that through their work in the library, some will become interested in a career in library science.

One of the more important service clubs of Sharon High School is the Junior Red Cross, which is under the direction of Miss Chase. This organization meets every other Friday during the activity period and performs such services as making tray favors and cartoon books for children's hospitals. In addition, S.H.S. is represented by two students at the Boston Chapter of the Junior Red Cross. These two, Dave Clapp and Nancy Blyler, form Sharon's link with the Red Cross in Massachusetts.

SPO

No one thing helps more to create a unified school than the athletic teams which compete interscholastically. At each game, from soccer to golf, the spectators are united in the single desire to cheer their team on to victory; and this united effort, in the form of school spirit, is often carried into the classroom and other scholastic activities.

The sports season is a continuous one, beginning in the fall with soccer. Basketball, the sport with the greatest student following, is next on the sports calendar. The fast games, packed gymnasium, and enthusiastic rooters combine to make this sport the most exciting of all. The spring sports are many, with good weather drawing out the spectators. Baseball, softball, tennis, track and golf keep all the playing fields a beehive of activity from early April well into June.

Each sport contributes both to the school and to the students who participate. Good sportsmanship during team play reflects favorably upon the individual players and at the same time gives the school a good reputation. Sharon can be justly proud of this record.

SOCCER

This year an addition to Sharon High's sports program was the highly successful soccer team. Coach Blanchon began practices in the early fall with a group of rookie players; but enthusiasm for the game and the excellent training provided by the coach resulted in a top-notch team. Sharon played three schools: Duxbury, Norwell, and Quincy and was undefeated in six exciting games, winning four and tying two. Team spirit and interest ran high with the entire student body proud of each player's adeptness and skill.

The team which began the season as the newest addition in the area, and therefore the team with the least experience, became the team to beat and finished in number one place. This reputation gained leaves Sharon in the enviable position of having a title to defend in the soccer league which may be formed next year. We wish the team and Coach Blanchon the best of luck and continued success in this new sport.

School spirit plays an important part on the basketball court, and often spurs the team on to new heights, where before hope seemed lost. Many of the games this year have proven this fact, with special regard to the victory over Randolph that knocked that team out of its tied first place position. The boys finished the season with four straight wins and, as we go to press, have begun the South Shore tournament with a bang, beating Abington 56 to 38.

Congratulations are in order to the Jay Vees, who have completed their third straight year with an undefeated season. This remarkable record could well become a Sharon High School tradition.

BASEBALL

Mr. Gary Hall
Coach

From the increased number of young enthusiasts who appear at spring tryouts, it is evident that baseball is becoming more and more popular in Sharon High. After careful consideration, Mr. Gary Hall chooses the most promising players. This year the team will have the advantage of the added strength of many Junior Varsity players.

Although the Sharon squad has not recently been a top ranking team in the Hockomock League, it will always be rated highly by those who admire the indefatigable spirit and good sportsmanship of the players.

TRACK

About two weeks before the track season begins, Mr. Courteau's track men start a rigid training schedule of running, calisthenics, running, and more running. These boys work out every day from then to the end of the season.

Last year two new events were introduced, the pole vault and the javelin throw. Throughout the season Sharon consistently won in the 100 and 220 yard dashes, and the broad jump. Gordon Meikle finished first for Sharon in the broad jump and a close second on 220 at the State Meet.

Although the team lost a few valuable athletes last year, the prospect for this year is very promising.

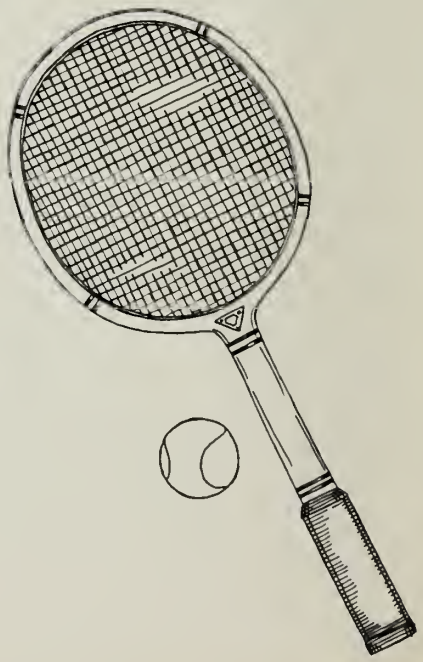
BOYS' TENNIS



One of the newer interscholastic sports at Sharon High, Boys' Tennis, has evolved into a highly competitive team. This is mostly due to the intensive coaching of Mr. Dunn. When March winds and temperatures prevent the use of the outdoor courts, one finds the team getting off to an early start practicing in the gym. As soon as weather permits, the squad moves outdoors, and in a short time is ready to compete with the teams of neighboring towns.

We all wish the boys continued success in the coming year.

GOLF TEAM

Last year the Sharon golf team, coached by Mr. Downing, strengthened its fine record of forty-four victories with only one loss and that, in the State Championship playoffs. It took two matches apiece from Quincy, North Quincy, Foxboro, Walpole, and Franklin.

The Sharon team is well experienced with five players who have been on the squad for three years. These boys include Robert Kirouac, Warren Cass, Paul Jones, Clyde Cawley, and James Nugent. They are followed by Steven Cass and John Connors, who are newer players.

Bobby Kirouac represented Sharon well by his expert playing in the Massachusetts and New England Junior Championship matches. Bobby finished first in three matches and second in another three.

This year Sharon, encouraged by last year's victories, looks forward to winning the State Team Championship.

Bob Kirouac, captain of the golf team, is well known in golfing circles as an amateur to watch.

CHEERLEADERS

This year the spirit of the student body at games rose to an all time high. Contributing factors to this increase were our seven exuberant cheerleaders. At game after game the four senior and three junior girls led the spectators in encouraging the team to do its best and bolstered spirits all around when a game was lost.

Under the leadership of Jennifer Bradford, the girls revised many of our old cheers, making them more lively and energetic by the addition of new peppy actions.

We hope that next year's cheerleaders will be as great a source of inspiration to the team and spectators.

BASKETBALL

After solidly trouncing the Alumni team on January 2, the Gladiators began their travels on the victory road. With the invaluable aid of Diane O'Donnell and Merry Lou Ahnberg, they followed up their first win with successive wins over Mansfield, twice in a row, Canton, Oliver Ames, Westwood, and King Philip. Two heart-breaking contests followed; in closely contested games with Stoughton and Foxboro, the final basket went to the opposing team. We can be justly proud of our girls for their excellent season and their good sportsmanship in the narrow defeats.

The junior varsity team again has had a succesful year, having lost only one game this season.

SOFTBALL

Commensurate with the growing size of Sharon High School, the girls' varsity softball team is increasing in numbers year by year. The girls, under the excellent and capable coaching of Miss Haley, had a very successful season last spring, winning five and losing three games despite the limited time available for practice.

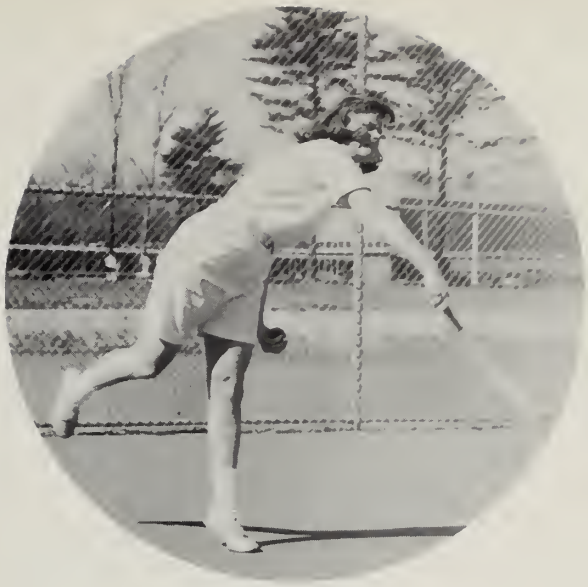
However, win or lose, the girls retained the good sportsmanship which is indicative of the spirit of Sharon High. Best of luck to this team in its next season and all subsequent ones!

GIRLS' TENNIS



The girls' varsity tennis team, organized three years ago by Mr. Dunn, is made up of those girls in grades nine through twelve who are interested in interscholastic tennis. Last year a squad of ten girls—Barbara Wood, Jennifer Bradford, Nancy Blyler, Diane Hamm, Peggy Thompson, Mary Ellen Hosmer, Joan Furber, Michele Gonzalas, Janet West, and Dottie Emerson—played in five matches with Westwood, Mansfield, and King Philip and ended the season with a record of three wins and two losses. The three victories were over King Philip and Westwood, while the girls lost to Westwood and Mansfield once.

This year, with all of last year's squad returning and with several promising sophomores and juniors coming up, Mr. Dunn expects to have a team with a great deal of depth and playing experience. With these, the girls' varsity tennis team should have a very successful year.

FEAT

"Blue Hawaii"

The Junior Prom, the most anticipated of the year's social functions, is presented in the spring after much preparation by the Junior Class. The committees begin planning early in the year; the dance programs, with the theme attractively represented on the cover, are ordered; and the band is engaged. Then follow weeks of painting exotic scenes, and making colorful flowers. The last days before the big night are a frenzy of activity as the decorations are put in place in the cafeteria. But all is not in vain. When the work is completed and the first couple arrives to gaze in awe at the transformation, the juniors are justly rewarded for all they have put into their dance.

The first endeavor of the senior year is the presentation of the senior play. An important social event of the year, the play is always well attended. Seniors learn quickly the importance of cooperation, when a large group is working together, in order for everything to move as smoothly and as efficiently as possible. The ticket, prop and publicity committees must work independently of, yet in cooperation with, each other; and it is necessary that the actors give their all so as to present a finished performance. During the final rehearsals, the work of the different committees comes together to form a unified whole; and the result gives all concerned a satisfaction well worth the effort.

The Class of 1960 looks back on its senior play with mixed emotions — wonder that so much work could be done in such a short time, pride that the performance was so enjoyable to the audience, and regret that the six weeks of fun and hard work are now over. The play, Jean Kerr's hilarious comedy "Jenny Kissed Me", was produced by Mr. Blake, with over two-thirds of the seniors contributing to the project as stage hands, property crews, make-up artists, costume supervisors, directors, prompters, and actors. A wonderful combination of co-operation and enthusiasm pervaded the atmosphere of each rehearsal, with the result that those working on the play, as well as the audience, found "Jenny Kissed me" both enjoyable and refreshing.
